

Page one: empty text content for boundary testing.

Page two: vector text page for routing classification test.

Page three: another vector page with moderate text content here.

Page four: final vector page completing the multi-page golden fixture.